Letter from the President

Steel is the cornerstone of the national economy and the lifeline of the country. At present, the world steel industry has entered the “China era”. As one of the largest manufacturers of steel materials and comprehensive service providers in the world, HBIS Group has always been committed to “high-end, green and intelligent” development. By firmly seizing the opportunities of a new round of scientific and technological revolution and industrial transformation, we have made new leapfrogs in leading green and low-carbon development, sought new breakthroughs in promoting intelligent manufacturing, and achieved new achievements in exploring material innovation. HBIS Group has depicted a magnificent picture of “green and low-carbon steel making the world better”, branding the “HBIS mark” for the sustainable development of the world’s steel industry.

We continuously optimize the product structure for higher-end development. High-quality development is the top priority in the all-around construction of a socialist modern country. We focus on addressing the issues of the times and stand at the height of serving major national strategies and leading the high-quality industrial development. We concentrate on aerospace, marine engineering equipment and other high-end manufacturing segments, and solve the "bottleneck" problem of high-end steel materials through technological upgrading. We aim to build a more autonomous, safer, and more robust industrial chain. We fully leverage the role of HBIS Material Technology Research Institute as a "vanguard" in technological upgrading, enhance the supply capacity of innovative technologies at the source, and develop more "world's first", "China's first" and "single champion" products, making HBIS's contribution to China's progress towards becoming an innovative country.

We accelerate the low-carbon transformation for greener development. Green and low-carbon development is the ultimate goal in promoting the high-quality development of China’s steel industry. Rooted in the steel industry and oriented to the whole industrial chain, we continuously expand the connotation and extension of hydrogen energy application by taking the lead in implementing R&D and industrial application of hydrogen energy technologies. We continue to lead the green and low-carbon development of the industry by strengthening our leading advantages in pollutant treatment, water resource utilization, solid waste recycling and other fields, and actively contribute “HBIS Solutions” to the low-carbon transformation of the steel industry. We energetically develop high-efficiency and eco-friendly products with greater strength, superior performance and longer lifespan. Our goal is to establish a comprehensive production system for low-carbon, energy-saving and green products and lead the new movement of “Steel Making the World Better”.

We constantly deepen the digital transformation for more intelligent development. Amidst a new wave of the global industrial revolution, we follow the trend and direction of digital economy development and apply digital technologies in the full life cycle of products from design, production and sale to service, consistently advancing the efficiency reform. We firmly grasp the advantageous opportunity of digital transformation to steadily promote technological upgrading, create a globally leading benchmark for intelligent manufacturing, build new competitive advantages in the digital era, and deepen quality reform in an all-around manner. We give full play to the advantages of high-end technical resources in the digital field, make innovative breakthroughs in cutting-edge intelligent manufacturing technologies in the steel manufacturing field, and fully empower "Intelligent Manufacture in China".

We will diligently fulfill what we have learned, and constantly improve our own quality and ability. We will continue to be dedicated to building ourselves into the most competitive steel enterprise, accelerate the transformation from "steel to materials and manufacturing to services", and develop new drivers and advantages for high-end, intelligent and green development, create a Chinese-style modernization, and actively contribute to HBIS' strength in order to create the “steel backbone” of a manufacturing power!
